Newsletter – June 2022

Spring has left and summer is here! That means it's the perfect time for our students to begin learning about the summer season. As you can tell by our June newsletters, we will be spending a lot of time outdoors so make sure your kiddo has appropriate attire, bug spray/lotion and sunscreen to protect their skin! Just like we celebrated Mother's Day in May, we will also be learning all about fathers in June! What an exciting month we will have! Most of our Classroom will be discussing the life cycle of a Butterfly and will be experiencing the process live. June 5th is World Environment Day. It's a day to encourage worldwide awareness to revive and protect our environments. While we try to implement sustainability into our practice every day, there is ALWAYS room for improvement. We took this opportunity to re-visit recycling and open up discussions about ways we can reduce, reuse and recycle. We do our best to minimize as much waste as possible and we are always learning and trying to improve. It all starts with us, and educating our children at an early stage can end up changing the world .
